

Michael C. Key

Michael Key is the co-founder, President, and CEO of Impello Biosciences, a plant biostimulant and biotechnology company from Fort Collins, Colorado. At Impello, Michael oversees the company's strategic vision and product development and has authored multiple utility patents in the fields of biochemical and biostimulant technologies. Prior to co-founding Impello, Michael was the Director of Research and Development at Functional Remedies, the first USDA-Certified Organic hemp farm in the country. Michael received his B.S. in Horticulture from Colorado State University, where he also worked as a Research Assistant in the Center for Rhizosphere Biology.