

Susan Nijsingh

Susan Nijsingh is business partnership specialist for Europe at Semios;passionate about the transition to sustainable agriculture. A graduate from the University of Michigan, she has worked on climate smart agriculture both in the public as well as the private sector. Originally from the Netherlands, she brings her international experience in business development and environmental policy to Semios' global mission to help nature feed the world.