

Abel Zaragoza

Abel Zaragoza is an Ag Technician from the School of Agriculture of Alfarràs, studying later studies at the University of Lleida, Spain. He has been working in the field of crop protection products starting in 1987 (technician ADV Coop. d'Albelda-Huesca, Spain; professor of Agriculture Technology at the Schools of Lleida and Gandesa, Spain) and moved on to KENOGARD (Business Development Manager) in 1990, a subsidiary of the leading Japanese corporation SUMITOMO where he implemented new innovative technologies applied to agriculture. From 2005 to 2010 he was Manager of SUTERRA ESPAÑA (later EUROPE), a global leader in environmentally sustainable pest control. From 2011, he works at COMERCIAL QUÍMICA MASSÓ, where he is launching a new biological and biotechnological line of products for pest control. During these years, he has built up a strong relationship with academic centres such as the Universitat Politècnica de Valencia (CEQA), Universitat de Lleida y Institut de Recerca Tecnologia Agroalimentària (I.R.T.A.), I.F.A.P.A. en Sevilla, C.A.R.M. –I.M.Y.D.A en Murcia, Protección de Cultivos-INIA de Madrid, en Italy Centredi Saggio ALSIA Centre Ricerche Metapontum Agrobios (A.L.S.A.) and AGREA s.r.l. Centredi Saggio, in Peru, Universiad Agraria La Molina, Dept. Entomology, in France Centre de Recherche PACA, Avignon, in USA with the USDA departments in California (pear ester) and Florida (Mediterranean fly), Med fly S.I.T. Program in South Africa.

Plant Health Advisor, registered in the Official Register of Producers and Operators of Means of Defense (ROPO) and Qualified Level for the professional use of phytosanitary products.