

Martijn Olde Weghuis

Martijn Olde Weghuis is Business Development Manager at Dutch drinking water provider Vitens. In this role he is responsible for the introduction of new concepts and products in the field of Resource Recovery in the broadest sense. Creating value and impact from "waste streams" is an important aspect in this task.

Martijn started his career in 2001, working for several high-tech companies with a focus on new business development and innovation. He has been working in the water sector since 2008, always on the interface between market and technology.

Martijn holds a Master's degree in Chemical Engineering from the University of Groningen and lives in Deventer, The Netherlands.
