

Javier Carpe

I studied environmental science and environmental engineering. I have also studied the degree of agri-food engineering and the master's degree in agricultural engineering.

My working life began at El Ciruelo in 2017, and since then I have had different functions, among which the following stand out: Assessment of new table grape varieties, fine-tuning of cultivation protocols for new varieties, development of protocols of conventional and organic cultivation, etc.